Full time training

The organization is running a project-class for young people who are tired of the established school system. The project-class is a fulltime offer that aims to give the young people an increased self-confidence and a clarification of expectations for future.

The frame of the training is the participants' own micro-projects that are adjusted to their individual capacity and assets.

Other leisure time activities.

The organization has a democratic structure allowing as well participants as staff to take new initiatives. This is every year leading to a number of other activities out of categories.

One of the most popular frames for innovations is the "Youth in Action Programme". Every year the organization is participating and organizing youth exchanges and networking activities. From 2008 the organization is sending and hosting young people through the European Volunteer Service.
